

An aerial photograph of the Chicago skyline at sunset. The Willis Tower is the central focus, with its distinctive spires reaching towards the sky. The city's dense grid of buildings is visible, and the Lake Michigan shoreline is in the background under a golden, hazy sky. Three white circular punch holes are visible on the left side of the image.

EGAN

CASE STUDY

Custom size M-Series TableScreens provide elegant space division as well as utility with a custom panel infill.

We knew Egan was the best choice for the job because of their Custom Response capabilities. Egan provided a solution that...added more benefits than just dividing space.

With offices in 157 countries and more than 195,000 employees, a large professional services firm ("The Company") aims to build public trust and enhance value for clients and stakeholders.

The Company recently teamed up with Egan Visual dealer Empire Office Inc. on furnishing a new open plan office space in Chicago, IL. The project specified beautiful benching systems with matching color dividers and chairs, but needed additional tabletop enhancements to provide privacy between individual workstations, all while complementing the current design of the office.

Egan Visual representative Levine Calvano Furniture Group stepped forward with the Egan TableScreen product offering, and the team quickly identified the winner. Egan was able to design and manufacture custom-sized M-Series TableScreen with a custom infill panel.

Special Projects Manager at Egan Visual worked closely with Levine Calvano Furniture Group and Empire Office Inc. to meet the client's needs. "The project scope was approximately 300 TableScreen units, and we were able to set up several mock-up units that allowed the firm to visualize exactly what Egan was able to bring to the table," noted Egan. The project has since grown to over 3,000 units nationally.

"We knew Egan was the best choice for the job because of their Custom Response capabilities," says Levine Calvano. "Egan provided a solution that not only was compatible with the current furniture but added more benefits than just dividing space."

Egan offers M-Series, Dimension, GlassWrite and Boxcore TableScreens. A variety of infill options, frame designs and mount systems are available. Visit www.egan.com for more details.

The project featured standard and custom-engineered mounting system